

Sam Beckwith

I'm an English writer/editor who's been based in Prague since 1996.

I'm the content editor of the online city guide Prague TV (<http://www.prague.tv/>) by day and mess around with a website called Stumpy Moose (<http://www.stumpymoose.com/>) in my spare time.

I'm also a big football fan -- I run Prague TV's Czech Football Daily weblog and freelance regularly for the British magazine World Soccer.

During my time in the Czech Republic, I've had two stints at The Prague Post -- as sports editor and business reporter -- and worked for a bewildering array of now-defunct English-language publications, among them The Prague Tribune, Globopolis.com, Central European Business Weekly, Threshold Praha and Citibank's Bizzango project.